

Pollution control and management training

Environmental remediation methods and technologies are constantly evolving, requirements of environmental legislation are growing as well, thus an important factor for effective and competent management as well as competitive business is continuous updating of knowledge and skills.

We offer:

- Training on application of environmental pollution survey methods
- Training on environmental legislation – Review of environmental legislation and analysis of requirements concerning environmental pollution survey, application and control of individual survey stages by state institutions and commercial clients
- Review and effectiveness analysis of various environmental remediation application methods considering pollution type and conditions, latest trends